

Puddin' Creek Mud Bog - Perry, Florida - October 23, 2010

There were lots of Rebel Flags, many beautiful southern ladies, great big trucks and other 4-wheel-drive vehicles that were not actually trucks, a huge crowd of spectators, and more mud that I have ever seen in my life!

Trucks Gone Wild was "on the scene" with Matt Steele promoting the event. I will have to say that Matt is a very energetic person who definitely enjoys his career choice!

Matt said, "I've said it before and I'll say it again, there are more big 4x4 trucks at the Puddin' Creek Events than any other events in the world."

There were two competitions on Saturday ... a "Free-Style" event (which apparently was conceived at Puddin' Creek last March) and the Battle of the Giants Bounty Hole.

The rules: Free-Style trucks must have 44"s or bigger [tires], a roll cage, seat belts, a fire extinguisher, and the driver must wear a helmet. For the Bounty Hole the trucks must be on 60" or taller tires and "you get one shot at it".

I could not understand why out of hundreds of trucks, only six entered the Free-Style event. And only eighteen signed up for the Bounty Hole run. I was told, "Ev-everyone just comes here to play".

What? People are investing a $100-grand into 4-wheel drive vehicles of some sort just to take them out and play in the mud? Friends

... I am sorry ... but I cannot grasp this line of thinking.

There were some people that had $200,000 motor homes parked here (it wasn't all mud). I heard an estimated 20,000 people were expected to attend this affair ... and it was packed!

"Puddin' Creek is nationally known as being one of the best mud holes in the country and you'll see people and trucks [here] from all over the place. It really is the spot to see the biggest gathering of huge trucks anywhere", said Matt Steele on the Trucks Gone Wild website.

Friends ... if you have a 4-wheel-drive and like to play in the mud ... you need to visit Puddin' Creek. -Rocky Sinyard
