with North Carolina transplant G.R. Smith, kicking off their partnership with back-to-back victories. Davenport added a $25,000 Hillbilly 100 triumph just seven days ago at Tyler County Speedway in Middlebourne, W.Va., and the team headed to Eldora with help from his former car owners — Kevin Rumley and his Hall of Fame engine-building father Lee Roy — joining in to help along with crew member Bryan Liverman.

The obvious hashtag — #TheBandisBackTogether — became the team's theme of the weekend, and they struck a winning tune Saturday with Davenport's dominating performance while buoying G.R. Smith's operation.

"I've just gotta thank G.R. Smith. If you only know our past, man, it's so cool," Davenport said with a laugh in victory lane. "Probably the first time we met one another, we was racing and, you know, I guess, I don't know, I ran over him, and he ran over me, and we had a little altercation there. But anyway, it's so cool for him to step out (of the car) ..."
